

Moving forward with languages

Calling all S5 and S6 learners!

Are you studying ANY language at Higher or Advanced Higher? Then this series of multilingual online workshops is for you!

SCILT, together with languages departments from universities across Scotland, have teamed up to present this unique series of workshops. Get advice and tips on the languages that you are learning right now, and get a flavour of what it is like to study languages at university level.

13 September: Brush up your translation techniques with the University of Strathclyde.

25 October: Express yourself - discover grammar's fundamental role in expressing yourself properly with the University of Edinburgh.

1 November: Take a different approach to cultural analysis and listening skills with the University of Stirling.

15 November: Conquer your fears about presenting in another language with these tips and tricks from the University of Dundee.

22 November: Join the University of Aberdeen and learn more about using images to hone your skills of critical analysis and build confidence in discussing your ideas.

29 November: Hone your reading comprehension skills in another language with the University of Glasgow.

Registrations are now open via the SCILT website. You can attend all six workshops, or simply choose the ones that will help you most to move forward with languages!
